Building the Business by Winning Customers

In the field of security information and event management (SIEM), no other company delivers a lower total cost of ownership or a greater return on investment than Network Intelligence. Spurred by relentless IT threats generated from viruses and worms, and legislation such as Sarbanes-Oxley, HIPAA, GLBA, and PCI, the SIEM market grew 32.2% from 2004 to 2005. During this same period, Network Intelligence revenue grew 60%. Network Intelligence has been identified as a leader in both the Gartner Magic Quadrant (3 years in a row) and in the Forrester Wave. Network Intelligence takes the cost and complexity out of compliance and security for more than 700 customers worldwide, including 5 of the Fortune top 10.

Softrax Posts Record First Fiscal Quarter

Softrax Corporation, a leading provider of enterprise billing and revenue management solutions, recorded its best first fiscal quarter ever. Total bookings for the quarter increased by 97% over the same period last year, while sales to new customers more than doubled. The growth of new business at Softrax is fueled by increasing market demand for solutions that manage financial functions such as very complex billing operations and revenue recognition processes, including revenue allocations, deferrals and renewals. This specialized functionality is not provided in traditional financial and ERP systems, but is increasingly required to implement many new and evolving business models. www.softrax.com

1000 Customers and Counting

Top Layer Networks, a leading provider of network security appliances, recently achieved a business milestone of cash flow positive operations in Q2. The Company has been providing network security solutions since 2002 and expects to ship IPS products to its 1000th customer this quarter. Top Layer's IPS 5500 solution received the top ranking in a recent Information Security Magazine technical review over Cisco, ISS, Sourcefire, and Radware. www.toplayer.com
